By Roger Morris

This timely selection includes affordable delights and a few big-ticket beauties. There are a lot of new wine releases on the market as we turn from summer to fall, and we've selected 25 of the best, from various locations, in a wide variety of styles and prices.

Mill Creek Dry Creek Valley Zinfandel 2013 ($32). Warm and generous with blackberries, a hint of caramel, and crisp edges.

Dry Creek "Four Clones" Dry Creek Valley Zinfandel 2014 ($40). Dark and intense with lots of stuffing and some hints of balsamic.

Seghesio "Cortina" Dry Creek Valley Zinfandel 2014 ($40). Nice, ripe cherry fruitiness, turning a little mellow and creamy in the finish.
